Uniting Business. Advancing Kentucky.

Is Kentucky making progress in improving the education of its citizens? Are Kentucky's colleges and universities having a positive impact on regional economic growth and the state's ability to compete in the global marketplace? What challenges do we face in creating a high-quality future for our state?

The Kentucky Chamber's Postsecondary Education Task Force has spent several months reviewing these and other questions related to the progress that the state has made since enacting postsecondary reforms in 1997. A critical part of the independent study has focused on how well the relationship between postsecondary education and economic development is working.

Please join the Task Force as it releases its findings and recommendations on this issue so important to Kentucky's future.
